41	I wish the sermons (all of them) were shorter (it's hard to walk away with a takeaway and remember the point of the message when too many topics are introduced.) Personal stories could be more articulate and to the point. When you say I-I-I too much, we become observers. When you say we-we-we then we are included in the journey and encouraged to think. Lastly, I would take that extra forfeited sermon time and build 5-8 minutes every week of personal prayer time. We could pray silently in the pews, or go to a prayer minister at a station in the Sanctuary. I believe that is truly what we all need in worship. Being still and truly letting your conversation go with God.	1/23/2023 10:24 AM
